J. GAINER, South Edmonton, has an extra fine display of Christmas beef and fowls, at his butcher shop, all home production. Mr. Gainer has a most competent and obliging assistant in Mr. John Trimble.

INVITATIONS are out for a supper to be given at Fort Saskatchewan on New Year's night by the officers, non-commissioned officers and constables of G Division N. W. M. police.

Calgary Herald: A. H. Rumball, at one time a resident of Edmonton but now of Winnipeg, who has been in Calgary for some days on business, this morning received the news of the death of his young son very suddenly in Winnipeg.

As item from the Regina Leader mentions the marriage in Regina on December 16th, of J. C. Gordon of Egg lake to Miss Rhoda Anderson of Regina. The bride will be remembered in Edmonton as the eldest daughter of Wm. Anderson, who was Indian agent here for many years, and the groom as Sgt. Gordon who was attached to G Division at Fort Saskatchewan for some years, before and after 1885. Mr. Gordon is now ranching at Egg lake south of Victoria.

CHRISTMAS day was one of the finest of the season, clear, calm and mild. Sleight riding curling and skating were all patronized extensively, and enjoyed immensely. Business was suspended, and everyone bent their energies to the usual enjoyments of the day, and yet there was no disorder.

The Calgary civic ball given on Wednesday, December 20th, in honor of Lieutenant-governor Mackintosh was a grand success. All Calgary was there in its best clothes. Dancing, mutual admiration and prosaic but enthusiastic eating, filled the time as full as the most loyal citizen could wish to be.

GLOVER & ANDREWS, music dealers, have purchased a considerable portion of the stationery stock of F. D. Fortin, and will open a first class stationery business in the building they at present occupy. Half the store will be devoted to stationery, and the remainder to music, musical instruments and sewing machines. They will keep a good stock and pay strict attention to business.

The contract for the erection of a traffic bridge across the Red Deer river, at Red Deer, Alberta, has been awarded to David W. McKenzie, saw mill owner of Red Deer. When completed the bridge will cost in the neighborhood of $3,000, and will prove a great boon to the settlers. It is being built from the Northwest government grant to Red Deer district, on the recommendation of the member F. E. Wilkins.

D. L. CLINK, Indian agent, of Battle River is in town. Mr. Clink reports that the yield of wheat on the Battle river reserves this season will aggregate about 8,000 bushels. Threshing is not yet finished, but the yield so far is very satisfactory, and the quality excellent. The new water mill on Battle river has ground about 800 sacks of flour, and will be shut down shortly for the winter, as soon as enough has been ground for winter use. There is considerable sickness amongst the Indians, but so far not many deaths.

LYNX and foxes are being caught in large numbers this season, having increased with the increase of rabbits. The large number of rabbits not only increases the supply of the fur bearing animals which live upon them but also enables the Indians to go to greater distances from camp and therefore to hunt to better advantage, than they can when rabbits are scarce and they must carry all their food with them. Musk rats are also numerous. There is every prospect of a good catch of fur this winter.

The first number of the Broadway, Assiniboia, Sentinel is to hand, published by H. Waite. In its introductory it says: "The necessity for effecting a radical change in the tariff all along the line to meet the altered conditions of our farming life is too palpably evident, and surely Winnipeg's emphatic message of a few weeks ago, spoke in terms unmistakable enough as to what the verdict of Manitoba and the Northwest will be at the next general election, should the government not acquiesce in the desires of the people of these parts, which we sincerely hope they will."

Calgary Herald: Last month was the third best month in the year as far as immigration into the northern country was concerned. As many as 400 people and 31 carloads of effects came in and went on principally to the Battle river and Edmonton country. The greater proportion of these settlers came in from the States. They are still coming in. Last Monday's train north took 31 settlers and a carload of effects with it, the people being mostly from Minnesota, and there has been a fair average all through the month. The settlers from the States all speak very favorably of next season's prospects as far as immigration from that country into Alberta is concerned.

COMMUNION service was held in All Saint's church at 8:30 on Christmas morning. Morning prayer followed by communion service was held at 11 a. m. Rev. Mr. Stenden took for his text St. Luke, 2nd chapter and 14th verse, "Glory to God in the highest, Peace on earth, and good will to men." The choir rendered the opening hymn, "O Come all ye faithful." Anthem, "Let us go now with the angels." Communion hymn, "Alleluia, sing to Jesus." Closing hymn, "Hark the herald angels sing." There was a fair congregation. The church was handsomely and appropriately decorated with evergreens. Owing to a misunderstanding the service announced for 3 p. m. in Holy Trinity, South Edmonton, did not take place.

The Winnipeg Tribune publishes a handsome annual as a Christmas supplement to its daily edition. The annual comprises 96 large pages of interesting reading matter, chiefly original and profusely illustrated. The front plate gives all the mayors of Winnipeg from Cornish to Taylor. Two more full page plates give the Winnipeg ministers of 1858. Other interesting plates are royal children of Europe. The reading matter includes a story by E. E. Sheppard of the rebellion of 1855 by Geo. E. Brooks, and a very large amount of other interesting matter. The annual far eclipses anything of the kind yet produced in Winnipeg. The price to all but cash, in advance subscribers to the Tribune is 50 cents, and it is cheap at the money.

REGINA Leader: On Saturday evening Mr. John J. Gordon of Egg lake, near Edmonton, was united in the bonds of matrimony with Miss Charlotte Elizabeth Rhoda, eldest daughter of Mr. Anderson, of the Indian department, Muscopetung agency. Miss Anderson wore a plain but becoming costume of dark blue cloth, trimmed with grey Persian lamb. The wedding took place in St. Paul's church, the Rev. H. J. Bartlett, rector, officiating. Many friends of the young couple were present on the interesting occasion. The bride was given away by her father and was attended by her sister, Miss Lulu Anderson and Miss Lash, bridesmaids. Mr. Outram presided at the organ, rendering the familiar strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march in his usual brilliant way as the party left the church. After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sibbald, where the festivities proper to the occasion took place. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon left next morning on the delayed train for their home in the west.

THREE inches of snow fell last night.

MUNICIPAL elections on Tuesday next.

The Taylor block is now ready for the plasterers.

The Baptist church Sunday school will hold a social in the new church building to-night.

MAJOR McGINN, inspector of Indian agencies, is in town, having driven from Battleford.

BIGADIER Margrets of the Salvation Army has not arranged the date for his visit to Edmonton.

The new electric light dynamo left Calgary this morning. It will probably be Saturday before the current can be turned on.

NOMINATIONS.

The re-election of M. McCauley by acclamation for the third time to fill the position of mayor of this town is an honor of which that gentleman may be justly proud. The more so because in a new town such as this where the spirit of push is moderately strong and where people are not greatly influenced by veneration for custom or prerogative, it is reasonably certain that the position would not have been attained without a contest had it not been deserved. Mr. McCauley has undoubtedly filled the position of mayor of Edmonton for the two past years with credit to himself and to the town and it is only to be expected that with increased experience still better service will be rendered. That he has discharged his many duties at considerable financial loss to himself there is no doubt, and in consenting to accept the position for a third time it is at a considerable personal sacrifice.

The candidates for councillor include some of the best and most suitable men in town and we may rest assured that if the welfare of the town is not safe in their hands for a year it will be on account of errors of judgment and not of intent. While regretting that councillor K. A. McLeod has not seen fit to offer for re-election, on account of press of business, it is pleasing to know that the new men who are offering are also well fitted for the position, and although all cannot be elected there is no possibility of other than a good council being chosen from their number on election day.

DEBTOR AND CREDITOR.

The condition of affairs mentioned in the article copied from the Winnipeg Tribune which appears in another column, is one which certainly requires to be remedied. Not that we in this particular part of the Northwest have seen many examples of the injustice worked under the foreclosure of chattel mortgages or seizure under execution or distress warrant; but we have seen enough to show the possibility of cases occurring in which the debtor is robbed without the creditor being benefited. It is quite customary in such cases to cry out against the creditor as a shark, a shylock, or anything and everything that is bad; but crying out does not mend the matter. In many cases both debtor and creditor are the victims of circumstances. The debtor has contracted obligations which he had every prospect of being able to meet at the appointed time; but circumstances over which he had no control such as accident, illness, frost, hail, fire or drought, may have placed it beyond his power. The creditor also on the strength of the prospect of what he was to receive from his debtor may also have contracted obligations which he cannot meet unless the amounts due him are paid. He pushes others because he is pushed himself. He seizes upon his debtor's effects, and realizes upon them for the purpose of preventing his creditors from seizing upon his effects; or perhaps he seizes and realizes, knowing that if he did not some other creditor would; or the security upon which he seizes might be made away with and he would get nothing. For reasons which under ordinary circumstances are good and sufficient, the law provides that in case of any seizure under mortgage or otherwise, the creditor cannot assume possession of the property actually seized. It must be put up at auction and sold to the highest bidder, and he is only entitled to such portion of the price as his account amounts to; the balance, after expenses are paid, going to the debtor or original owner of the property. This provision is framed on the supposition that there is sufficient accumulation of wealth in the community to ensure that every article will bring nearly its value when offered at public auction. The danger guarded against is that of greedy creditors seizing property worth much more than the amounts due them and appropriating it to themselves to the loss of the debtor. While it is necessary to provide against this possibility the practical result of the present method of doing so is generally that the property sold goes for less than its actual value and heavy sale expenses eat up whatever margin there might be in the debtor's favor. This is under the most favorable circumstances. Under unfavorable circumstances, such as apparently exist in many districts in Manitoba, where a general calamity of some sort has occurred so that there is not that accumulation of surplus wealth necessary to ensure that property will bring its value, when property is offered for sale under seizure it does not bring enough to pay even the costs of the sale—that is the debtor is deprived of his property and the debt remains unpaid. This is not justice and certainly is not the intent of the law. It is the result of circumstances altogether different from those under which it was expected that the law would be called upon to operate. The only possible conclusion is that the law should be changed to fit the circumstances. There does not seem to be any reason why the debtor should not be allowed, if he preferred, to hand the property over to the creditor at a valuation, if that could be agreed upon, without the expenses of a sale being incurred, and if debtor and creditor could not agree as to the value let the matter be decided by arbitration. In many cases, if this were allowed, the creditor could, by awaiting favorable opportunities, realize a larger proportion of his account and the debtor pay a larger proportion of his debt than either could under a forced sale. It may be said that it would not be just to the creditor to compel him to take property when he was entitled to cash. In a way it would not be just, but the injustice would lie by force of circumstances and not by reason of the law, as at present. If the debtor has not got the creditor cannot get, and if the creditor gets what the debtor has he can get no more in any case. To let him have it in the best possible shape for him to make his own out of it is to do him greater justice than to compel him to deprive the debtor of the means of paying his debt and yet not get the pay.

Another very grave injustice in the matter of debtor and creditor is that of unlimited liability under a mortgage. That is, a creditor takes security on certain property which at the time is supposed to be full value for the amount of debt contracted. A depreciation in value takes place, the mortgage is foreclosed and the property does not realize the amount of the mortgage; the debtor is still liable for the remainder of the indebtedness. The creditor in taking a mortgage actually becomes the owner of the property mortgaged. In doing this he shuts out other creditors of the same debtor from any possible share in the property mortgaged, until his claim is fully satisfied. After the mortgagee having thus protected himself fully for the advances made, it seems unduly hard on the debtor that he should not only have to give up all the property demanded in the first place by the mortgagee but that any other property that he may have should still be liable in case through any miscalculation or mischance the property did not realize the amount of the mortgage when it came to a sale. When the mortgagee has been allowed his own terms in securing himself to the exclusion of other creditors it seems only fair that as he became the owner of the property he should be the loser if it should depreciate in value below the amount of his advance, and that he should not, after taking all the security he chose to demand, still come in on a better footing than other creditors for the remainder. When Shylock demands his pound of flesh he must have it, but when flesh is lacking let him be the loser and not be allowed to make up from bone what he was only entitled to in flesh.

NOMINATIONS.

The nomination of candidates for the positions of mayor and councillors of the town of Edmonton for the year 1894 were held in the council chamber from ten o'clock until noon on Tuesday. The following nominations were made: For mayor, M. McCauley, by C. F. Strang and Geo. P. Sanderson. For councillor: M. McLeod, by Geo. P. Sanderson and J. Kelly. Geo. P. Sanderson, by C. F. Strang and J. Kelly. James Goodridge, by E. J. Bangs and W. S. Robertson. C. F. Strang, by F. Marriaggi. W. S. Robertson, by James Ross, by W. S. Robertson and K. A. McLeod. J. H. Picard, by G. P. Sanderson and A. F. Degagne. C. Gallagher, by J. H. Picard. F. Marriaggi, by J. A. McDougall, by C. F. Strang and Jas. McDonald. C. W. Sutter, by Jas. Ross and H. L. McInnis.

As there was only one nomination for mayor, M. McCauley was declared duly elected. In accepting the position Mr. McCauley thanked the electors for the renewal of their confidence and promised to justify that confidence by discharging the duties of the office to which he had been elected without fear or favor. He referred to the standing of the town which he said was equal to that of any town in Manitoba or the Northwest. The assets showed a good surplus over liabilities, there was a good system of fire protection, a comprehensive system of sidewalks and graded streets. In these particulars the town was now well supplied and the great question for the coming year was railway connection by bridge and electric railway. Either the expenditure should be light—if nothing was done towards the objects—or it should be large enough to obtain them if they were attempted. He would have gone into these matters more deeply had there been a larger attendance of ratepayers, but most of those present were acquainted with the facts, as well as himself. He again thanked the electors for their confidence. A poll for the election of councillors was announced to be held on Tuesday, January 2nd from 9 o'clock in the morning to five in the afternoon. The count of votes to be made and the result declared at six o'clock of the same day. A. G. Randall returning officer, J. R. Michael deputy returning officer.

IT SHOULD BE STOPPED.

Winnipeg Tribune.

The story told to a Tribune reporter by Rev. Dr. Robertson and published in another column about the hardship inflicted upon settlers by selling their stock and chattels to satisfy the sheriff, is even worse than that told by a correspondent in this paper a couple of weeks ago. Dr. Robertson tells about a good team of horses, an organ and some other articles all being sold under the hammer for about $35. In another case a man's team was sold for $5.75. In the first instance the price obtained, $35, would certainly not be more than half the value of the organ, unless it was an indifferent instrument; so that the team of horses and other articles were given away for nothing. In the next case the price obtained for the team of horses, $5.75, is so absurd that we can scarcely believe that any officer of the court would allow the animals to go for that figure. It was not enough to pay for the legal document under which the sale was held, to say nothing about expenses of bailiff or sheriff.

While we would not like to advocate any action through which debtors would be relieved of paying their just debts, still we cannot refrain from pointing out that such a state of affairs as permits the sacrifice of a man's property in the manner described by Dr. Robertson is radically wrong, and should be considered, and, if possible, remedied by the legislature which meets next month. The sale of settler's stock and chattels under the conditions represented by Dr. Robertson does no good to any man, not even the creditor, and it effectually ruins the debtor. What possible object can any creditor have in ruining a debtor by depriving him of the ability of ever being able to pay? It seems to us that when such things as have been described by Dr. Robertson and a former correspondent occur, it is high time for the legislature to interfere and prevent the ruin of the creditor and the consequent immense damage that must result to the country. The matter is certainly of such grave importance as to demand consideration by the legislature at the coming session.

The first curling game of the season took place on the river on the afternoon of Christmas day. The ice was cleared of snow just below the lower ferry and a game of ten ends was played between the following rinks:

F. A. Ibbotson, S. L. Langley,
T. Bellamy, J. A. McDougall,
W. McKay, F. A. Osborn,
Jas. McDonald—10. T. B. Henderson—4.

Arrangements have been made to have a rink on the river kept clear of snow so that there may be play whenever the weather and business leisure admits.

MASONIC HALL.

The hall given last night in Robertson Hall under the auspices of Edmonton Lodge A. F. & A. M. was certainly the affair of the season. The attendance was about 100, with an almost equal proportion of ladies to gentlemen. The decorations of the hall were elaborate and tasty. Streamers of red white and blue cloth were stretched from corner to corner of the ceiling and looped up in the centre. The windows were shaded by the most beautiful curtains the Hudson's Bay Co. store could furnish. The gallery was gracefully draped in red, white and blue, and curtained with white lace. The stage was ornamented with evergreens and drapery; two deer heads, and a buffalo head handsomely mounted, a large mirror and several beautiful pictures were tastefully arranged on the walls. The seats were cushioned with musk ox robes, and the hall lighted with a grand array of hanging lamps, from Ross Bros. Electric light, store in lieu of the still missing electric light. The reception committee were Mr. and Mrs. Braithwaite and Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Taylor. The costumes of the ladies were brilliant and varied, tasty and expensive, all that they should, and almost all that they could be. To give a clumsy description in detail would only be to spoil the effect. The music was furnished by the Orchestral Society, the performers being Sgt. Parades and W. Mortimer violins, T. H. Andrews piano; W. Clarke, cornet; F. Kiel, flute; J. R. Michael, piccolo. Supper was served in the gymnasium room under the hall, and having been provided by Mariaggi nothing more need be said regarding it. Dancing was kept up until about 4 a. m. The following was the programme: Grand March and Circle, Waltz, Lancers, Schottische and Glide, Polka, Waltz, Lancers, Waltz and Jersey, Quadrille; Military Schottische and Polka, Lancers; Waltz, Quadrille, Waltz, Lancers, Schottische and Lush Polka, Waltz, and Jersey, Lancers, Military Schottische and Polka, Quadrille, Waltz and Rockaway. Great credit is due to the managing committee, Messrs. C. W. Sutter, H. C. Taylor, E. Rayner and N. G. Flater, for the success of the ball.

PRESBYTERIAN SUNDAY SCHOOL.

The Christmas tree entertainment of the Presbyterian Sunday School was held on Tuesday evening in the church. The building was well filled by parents and friends of the children and others interested in the Sunday school. The building was suitably decorated with evergreens, chief among the decorations being two large spruces loaded down with presents. The chair was taken by A. M. Campbell, superintendent of the Sunday school. The following is the programme: Opening chorus, "O Come all ye faithful," by the school. Chairman's address, in which Mr. Campbell gave a sketch of the work and standing of the school and pointed out the advantage of the Sunday school in training children to attend religious worship and teaching them truths which although they might not understand them at the time they would recall and understand as they became older. Recitation, "Merry Christmas," Isa Henderson. Chorus "Beautiful Sabbath," the school. Recitation, "Byalls Story," Alice McDougall. Chorus, "The Crown Jewel," by seven little girls. Recitation, "Two little stockings," Ethel Richardson. Chorus, "Come to the house of the Lord to-day," the school. Dialogue, "What have I in my pocket," Dan McCauley and Dan McLeod. Recitation, "Aunt Prue," Flossie Sutter. Instrumental solo, Alex. McCauley. Address by Rev. D. G. McQueen, in which he spoke of the good work being done in the school through the efforts of the superintendent and teachers and of the attention paid to the children. At the same time parents should not consider that they were relieved from responsibility merely by sending the children to Sunday school. The Sunday school was important but its importance was as an aid to home influence in building up character. Recitation, "So long ago," Clara Lander. Duet, "Cut it down," Maggie McCauley and Lottie McKay. Recitation, "Ill Try," Frank McCauley. Recitation, "Little Chatterbox," Anna Oliver. Trio, "Autumn Leaves," Mabel Richardson, Clara Lander and Clara Oliver. Recitation, "Youth and Age," Doris Oliver. Recitation, "Baby's first Christmas," Mary McCauley. Chorus, "Ring Sabbath bells," school. Recitation, "Mrs. Puss," Flossie Sutter. Recitation, "Sixty years ago," Maud McCauley. Recitation, "Boundary of Christmas," Clara Oliver. The distribution of presents followed. The proceeds of the admission fee of 25c for adults only, was $21.00.

All even numbered sections excepting 8 and 26 are open for homestead entry (100 acres) by any person sole head of a family, or any male over the age of 18 years.

ENTRY.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land to be taken is situated or if the homesteader desires he may, on application to the Minister of the Interior, or to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands, Winnipeg, receive authority for some one to be named by the intending settler to enter the land on his behalf for him. 2. Residence for three years within two miles of the homestead and actual residence for 3 months in each of the two years prior to application for patent. Ten acres must be broken the first year and after entry, 15 acres additional in the second and 15 in the third year; 10 acres to be in crop the second year, and 25 acres the third year.

3. A settler may reside anywhere for the first two years, in the first year breaking 5 acres, in the second cropping 50 and breaking additional 10, also building a habitable house.
